A Romulus limousine owner, a Van Buren businessman and a group of police officers worked together to lift the spirits of 16-year-old leukemia patient Raymond Refitt last week.

The combined efforts of George Mennie of Advance Limousine Service in Romulus, Darrel Ibach, owner of D&R Auto Parts, Van Buren Public Safety Director Mark Perkins and Officer Larry King provided Raymond with a visit from former Red Wings goalie Eddie Mio and a limousine ride with the youth's hockey hero.

The white stretch limousine whisked Mio, now associated with Matrix Sales Group in Sterling Heights, and an entourage of Van Buren Township officials to Raymond's home in Van Buren Township where the former Red Wing player visited with the youth. Mio brought autographed pictures of hockey great Wayne Gretzky and himself and presented Raymond with hats bearing Red Wing and Kings emblems.

"He's been excited about this all day," said his mother Anna Wade. "Raymond is a big hockey fan."

Lately, Raymond Refitt has had a mixture of good days and bad days resulting from his illness.

The family's hope that a bone marrow transplant would provide a miraculous return to health for Raymond has not materialized, and the youth is continuing to fight a day-to-day battle with the ravages of the disease.

Raymond and his mother have been through a series of battles, beginning with her efforts to gain approval for the bone marrow transplant from her insurance provider. Next, came the challenge to collect some $35,000 in uninsured expenses connected with the procedure. Finally, came the six-month hospitalization and painful treatment that began when Anna Wade was selected to be the bone marrow donor. Faculty and students at North Middle School helped with fund-raising events and the Moose Lodge 934 sponsored a dinner to aid in paying the expenses.

On April 24, 1991, the day before his 15th birthday, Raymond was admitted to Harper Hospital to begin preparations for the bone marrow transplant. Anna Wade entered the hospital on May 2.

"I can't say that it wasn't painful. It was. I went through some bad times during those six months," said Anna Wade in a June 3 interview. "I was at a low point, but I'm doing better now. Raymond has days when he's up and days when he's down. He'd like to do the things that other 16-year-olds do, and it's hard on him when he can't. He's taking driver's education and he'd like to drive a car."

Through the Grant-a-Wish Foundation, Raymond was able to make a trip to Disney world with his mother. He was also treated to a Tigers balgame recently.

Raymond has been advised to avoid environments where he might be exposed to illnesses, but the youth and his mother feel that he cannot cut himself off from people even if his contacts provide some danger. In fact, although Raymond has been taking school lessons at home, he hopes to be able to attend classes at Belleville High School when he enters the 10th grade next semester.

Ibach, the owner of the home that Wade rents, has been concerned about the family since he first heard of Raymond's illness.

At the time, Wade and her family were living in Romulus and were looking for a place to live where Raymond could keep his pet cat, Ibach said. Fortunately, Ibach had a rental home that was vacant, and the Wade family moved in.

"I know that Raymond is a hockey fan, so I contacted Eddie Mio and asked him to come out to see him."

Legislator favors ending property tax for schools

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

State Rep. Gregory Pitoniak, who is seeking re-election in a restructured Romulus and Taylor political District 22, supports eliminating property tax as the key funding for local schools.

Pitoniak, who currently serves in the 29th District, said he favors paying for school needs with a heavier sales tax.

He feels the sales tax is much more equitable than the property tax, he said, because everyone would share the costs. The tax does not cover essentials such as food, medicine and services, and visitors attracted by the growing tourism in the state would pay a heavy portion of our school costs, according to Pitoniak.

Pitoniak knows jumping the sales tax from 4 to 7 or 8 percent is a radical proposal, but could be a much easier way to solve the current school funding crisis statewide, he said.

Pitoniak is planning to meet with Romulus city and school district officials tonight at the Days Inn hotel to familiarize himself with local issues.

But a cloud over the meeting will be the possibility that the recent redistricting map could be overturned next week by a panel studying an appeal that the political boundaries were drawn along racial lines.

If the redistricting effort is voided, Pitoniak said, incumbents would be returned to their old districts for the election this year.

In that confusing scenario, current Romulus area State Rep. James Kosteva would battle it out with Romulus challenger Carolyn Kellner in the Democratic nomination this August.

But in lieu of that decision, Pitoniak must continue to assume that he will face Hall and thus must widen his name recognition with Democratic voters in Romulus, he noted.

Pitoniak said he is extremely frustrated that the State Legislature has failed to come up with a viable car insurance alternative to the current AAA referendum this session.

But he remains hopeful, he noted, that such an alternative can be offered as soon as two roadblocks to a compromise can be removed. The roadblocks, he said, are a cap on medical costs covered by insurance policies and the percentage of policy cost cutbacks demanded by the legislature.

Pitoniak also is deeply concerned about the mushrooming penal system costs in the

Mayor's letter stings ex-board candidate

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The implication that a new school board member might become a spokeswoman for the city administration has sparked a strong letter from Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally.

McAnally said comments made by unsuccessful school board candidate Donna Lindquist-Capron in relation to Debra Hoffman's role on the new Romulus Community School Board were "extremely distressing" to her.

Lindquist-Capron was quoted in The Romulus Roman last week as saying, "I hope she (Hoffman) doesn't simply become a spokeswoman for Mayor Beverly McAnally. I hope also she knows a lot of people will be watching her on that very score."

Hoffman, who works as assistant city finance director, was the high vote getter in the election last week. She, along with incumbent Pat Patterson, was selected by the voters from a field of five candidates.

In a pointed letter to Lindquist-Capron, McAnally wrote "I realize that you are a new resident to the city and perhaps things are done differently in the community from whence you came." Lindquist-

Donna Lindquist-Capron

Capron moved to Romulus recently from Illinois.

"There is always the possibility that you were not accurately quoted, but since the quotes echo some of the issues you raised at the candidates' night, I would like to comment."

McAnally continued by stating it was her long-held contention that any citizen of this country has not only the right, but the obligation, to participate in the political process.

She then asked, "Would you disenfranchise this or any citizen from serving based upon employment, race, gender or religion?"

McAnally also expressed concern over Lindquist-Capron's comment about city employees campaigning for Hoffman "even on election day." She wrote, "Neither I nor anyone else has the right to dictate to any employee how he or she spends their earned personal time."

The spokeswoman reference was especially disturbing, McAnally continued and then she outlined a number of school board members and school employees who currently are seated on city commissions and boards as well as Mary Ann Banks, who serves as Mayor Pro Tem and is also a school employee.

"Surely...you do not suggest that these persons by virtue of their employment are somehow tainted and that their service to the city is inappropriate?" McAnally asked.

"Or, even more ominous, do you infer that they are mouthpieces for the superintendent of schools?" the mayor concluded.

Lindquist-Capron refused to comment on the letter, except to say that she did receive the letter and responded to it with a letter of her own.

Salvation Army seeking 15 acres of city-owned land

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A public hearing regarding the relocation of the Salvation Army Men's Rehabilitation Center, thrift shop and warehouse from the current Goddard Road location to city-owned property at Fourth Street and Van Born Road is scheduled for 6 p.m. July 13.

Salvation Army officials agreed to the timetable June 9 after promising that a current program which includes housing about 35 men who are involved in a pre-release program conducted by the state Department of Corrections will be discontinued.

The issue was addressed by City Councilman William Wadsworth who asked for an assurance from Salvation Army Central Territory Commander Lt. Col. Marcus Stilwell of Illinois and local Commander Capt. Roger Senn that the Department of Corrections program would definitely be discontinued upon changing sites.

Stilwell not only issued a verbal promise to Wadsworth, but said the Salvation Army was willing to put the promise in the form of a written clause in the land purchase agreement.

The current Salvation Army property on Goddard Road is being taken over by Wayne County in preparation for the Metro Airport expansion.

The public hearing plan was preceded by an angry confrontation between Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally and Councilman Jimmie Raspberry regarding information provided to City Council members concerning the potential sale.

The unusual shouting session between the two veteran city officials was ignited by Raspberry's claim that he felt school board voters he met the day before the council study session knew more than he did about the pending sale.

He stated that numerous voters, who reside in the area of Fourth Street and Van Born Road, approached him about the sale issue while he was distributing campaign literature and he had no information regarding the matter.

Raspberry asked the mayor to comment on the letter, except to say that she did receive the letter and responded to it with a letter of her own.

'Teacher of the Year' honored at meeting

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

The Associated Newspapers first Teacher of the Year received his award last Monday night at a Wayne-Westland school board meeting.

Gregory Zoumbaris was awarded first place in a contest that was staged in area school districts. He was chosen based on a letter and nomination submitted by his sister, Sue Zoumbaris.

Before a packed school board meeting, Associated Newspapers President David Willett presented Zoumbaris with his award and commented on the important role teachers play in the lives of thousands of students.

"Teachers touch our lives in a very special way," Willett told the board members and audience, "Very few have the opportunity to be as influential or important in the shaping of lives as do teachers. We hope to be presenting this award every year to honor those who fulfill this important role. We were all sincerely moved by Mr. Zoumbaris dedication and touched by his sister's letter," Willett said.

Willett also noted that the choice for Teacher of the Year was a difficult one and that there were numerous worthy candidates nominated for the award.

Zoumbaris explained to the audience and school officials that he has always told his students to choose their careers based on what makes them happy.

"I always say to them to pick something they truly love doing," he said. "I feel honored that I've had a chance to do something that I truly love and that is teaching."

Zoumbaris a resource and teaching consultant at Stottlemyer Elementary School in Westland. Many of the students he works with have learning disabilities, he said.

"Greg's a high-caliber teacher who is very well respected by the community," said Lillian Vojak, principal at Stottlemyer Elementary School.

Zoumbaris' success comes from his belief that anyone can overcome obstacles.

"Whatever their abilities are, all children can learn," he said. "For some children, you have to find the ways that they can learn."

The 44-year-old teacher finds his job rewarding because he loves the children, he said.

Retiring teachers' names revealed

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

Students in the Wayne-Westland school districts will have approximately 71 new faces to look at when they return to school next fall.

That's because 71 teachers in the district have retired, according to school officials.

School district officials offered teachers a $24,000 retirement incentive in the spring. By the May 7 deadline, 82 teachers had applied, but the agreement allowed teachers seven days to rescind, according to Bill Taylor, associate superintendent of employee services.

At least 40 teachers had to apply for the incentive and no more than 125 teachers could take advantage of the offer.

The loss of experienced teachers will be felt throughout the district, according to Dr. Thomas Svitkovich, deputy superintendent of schools.

"We're losing some tremendous people," Svitkovich said.

The following teachers have retired:

William Ide, David Jensen, Joyce Jewell, Joanne Johnson, Kenneth Knick, Bonnie Kutchins, Kay Leers, Carolyn Lucas, Douglass Lucas, Rosemary Lucas, Shirley Machleid, John Malone, Norman Mathias, Mary McCallum, Judith McCullough, Barbara McDonald, Philip Medlyn, John Mooneyham, Ernest Moran, Darrel Mullinix, Leonard Natkowski, Elizabeth Newton, Orville Ponte, Elizabeth Potter, Morton Potter, Susan Price, Richard Ramage, Abby Roche, Barb Saum, Gary Saum, Beverly Schoch, Raymond Shaffer, James Shoemaker, Joyce Simonds, Olga Solovey, Melvin Straight, Franklin Sukany, Sharlene Tator, Shirley Taylor, Christy Theodore, Robert Thompson and Donald Toms.

Their retirements will be effective June 30.

The incentive is expected to save the district approximately $2.5 million within a two-year-period, Taylor said.

The retirements are being referred to as opportunities for other teachers remaining in the district. For the first time in many years, Wayne-Westland teachers have the opportunity to change positions within the district.

Some of the advantages of the incentive to the district included the possibility of hiring a younger workforce, and the ability to hire more minorities, according to Taylor said.

"We would be able to hire a substantial number of new teachers who would come in with a fresh attitude and vigor," Taylor said last month. "It would give this school district an opportunity to seriously look at hiring minority staff."

Woman robbed in Canton

A 61-year-old Canton Township woman lost more than $1,000 cash and other valuables when she was robbed shortly before 2 a.m. June 10 outside the Meijer Thrifty Acres store on Ford Road in Canton.

The Canton resident had gotten out of her car and put her purse in a shopping cart before starting toward a store entrance. When nearing the doors, she saw a person pushing several carts in her direction.

According to police reports, the person smiled at her and she thought the individual was a store employee. But when the two got closer, the subject pushed the cart into her, grabbed her purse and ran.

Although she attempted to grab the purse and then ran after the subject, the thief made off with her purse containing more than $1,000 cash, several credit cards and a watch valued at approximately $3,000, according to police reports of the incident.

The subject is described as a white male, 5-foot, 8-inches to 6-foot tall and weighing about 200 pounds. He has dark hair and was wearing a white T-shirt and jeans, according to police.

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

2 arrests due on theft charges

Two arrests of individuals who broke into 30-60 vehicles last week in the Windcliff Subdivision in Romulus are expected soon, Det. Sgt. Joseph Wedesky revealed today.

The thieves stole car stereos, audio tapes, check books, more than $500 in cash and numerous other items from the parked autos, Wedesky said.

A news delivery person spotted scores of car doors open on parked vehicles early in the morning and alerted police.

Police officers learned the possible identity of one suspect and effected a search warrant at his home where they recovered a number of stolen items.

Any persons, who feel they were victimized by the thieves are urged to call Wedesky at 942-6881 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Retirees cited by school board

Retiring Romulus Community School District employees were honored last week with plaques and gift certificates.

The retirees included: Lois Avery, learning center specialist, 25 years; Geraldine Croft, teacher, 19 years; Annie Hines, teacher 25 years; Floyd McClendon, teacher, 24 years; Hazel Baker, paraprofessional, 19 years; Emma Hatcher, bus driver, 22 years; Edith Montour, custodian, 13 years; Mary Sneath, custodian, 20 years; and Serlena White, bus driver, 13 years.

City detective praised in letter

Detective Sgt. Cora Semreau, who assisted in the arrest of several armed bandits, had been praised in a letter to Police Chief Fred Dansby.

Wilhemina Williams of Pascagoula, Miss. told Dansby that she "thanks God for our lives" following the Aug. 28, 1991 robbery at a Romulus hotel.

She wrote, "Thank you for assigning Sgt. Semreau to our case. She was surely a blessing. I personally don't think I could have stuck with this if she hadn't been there."

The writer continued, "She's not only good at her job, but she's very considerate of the victims...and has the patience to mentally hold your hand and be your friend."

Williams concluded, "Your force should be proud of her. She loves her work and I know it is tough."

Local worker's death probed

The accidental death of a 25-year-old Romulus worker on June 6 is being investigated by Romulus Police and the Michigan Occupational Safety Hazard Administration.

The victim, Daniel Joseph Frank, a resident of St. Clair Shores, reportedly died at the Central Cartage plant on Ecorse Road after he stuck his head up through a boom portion of a forklift.

Police said Frank apparently was reaching up to grab a shipment paper for the box of screws he was transporting when the mishap occurred.

Romulus Police Sgt. Joseph Wedesky said Frank's leg apparently hit a lever that dropped the boom. It hit Frank on the back of the neck causing him to die from traumatic asphyxiation, according to the coroner's report.

An official statement from Central Cartage says the company and state officials also are probing the death, but that early findings "indicate operator error as the cause of the accident involving a modern electric forklift."

Mickey Blashfield, director of Governmental Relations with the firm, said Central Cartage will continue to cooperate with the ongoing investigation.

Romulus schools technology praised

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The Romulus School District technology program was heaped with praise by Congressional Committee on Education officials last week after two federal officials toured Wick Elementary School.

"I doubt if any school in the country is as well equipped technology-wise as Romulus," Jack Jennings, general counsel for the congressional committee, stated.

"Many schools are equipped with five to 20 computers," Jennings said, "but witnessing the changes evident here and being able to talk to both teachers and students, I am greatly impressed."

"The scope of education has been radically changed here and it is evident in the excitement expressed by both the staff and students. No one seems to be bored," Jennings said.

Explaining that the trip was requested by Congressman William Ford (D-Wayne), who chairs the Education Committee, Jennings said much of national school funding arrangements totaling more than $15 billion will be rewritten next year and the Education Committee wants to know where such successes are occurring nationwide.

"Romulus' technology program is on the cutting edge nationally," Jennings said, "and we feel that the federal government should be encouraging such efforts."

Jennings also praised the Romulus school administration, teachers and parents for having the courage to propose and support such a major educational change. The technology was the result of the passage of a $45 million school referendum.

Romulus comedian Toy Snipes, who still remembers playing local basketball with John Long of Detroit Piston fame, will be returning to the local comedy spotlight next week.

Snipes, who went by his first name John while attending Romulus High School, will be appearing at Richie's Comedy Shop in Allen Park from June 24-28.

He remembers switching to Cherry Hill High School in Inkster in his senior year. "When we played Romulus, it was fun getting cheered by fans from both schools," he said.

While the timing of this visit won't allow it, Snipes usually visits his former Romulus teachers when he is in town. "They are the ones who continually reminded me that I had the potential to succeed," Snipes said, "and I want to continue to thank them for their support."

"Romulus has changed a great deal since I left," Snipes said, "as I lived in the countrified area of Romulus and drugs were not much of an issue at school in the 70s."

Snipes said he didn't see the devastation that drug use could cause people until arriving in Los Angeles.

Now when he returns to Romulus, Snipes said, he is distressed to see some of his former classmates, even some who had more potential than he did as a youth, strung out on drugs.

His days of living in the countryside of Romulus, serving as a substitute teacher in Georgia and Florida and a young police recruit in Los Angeles provide Snipes with plenty of background for his comedy routines.

Snipes, who began using his middle name "Toy" as his professional name, kicked off his comedy routines back in 1979, five years after graduation.

Snipes, who writes nearly all his own material and intersperses it with imitations and sound effects, jokes about the occupational hazards of police work, entertainers, lawyers and school teachers.

Romulus High School counselor Al Wilkerson noted, "Snipes, who has always been spontaneous, can create instant humor at any time. In addition, it's refreshing to know he hasn't forgotten his roots."

Having already headlined and performed in 300 clubs and hotels across the U.S., Snipes also appeared on TV in Remington Steele and Cagney and Lacey prime time shows and in the movies Rocky III and 48 Hours.

But Snipes fears that the current craze of Comedy Club cable TV channel presentations is having a negative effect on clubs across the nation.

Teachers approve contract

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Retroactive paychecks for Romulus Community School District teachers who approved a new contract last Thursday should be arriving the week of July 10, according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell.

The teachers overwhelmingly approved the new pact by a vote of 155 to 32, with one abstention.

The contract had been approved by the Romulus School Board June 9, the day following the school board election.

The contract had been on center stage during the heated school board campaign, with challengers demanding a quick solution to the labor problem.

The contract calls for a potential 23 percent pay hike for teachers from 1991-94.

The first year pay raise was listed at 9 percent, followed by 6 percent hikes in the second and third years.

Another 2 percent hike could occur in the last year if an incentive plan could be activated to trim the 74 teacher layoff list by hiring laid off teachers to replace retiring veteran teachers or to increase the school calendar year to aid in the expanded technology program.

why the general public knew more about the possible land deal than City Council members.

The question made McAnally bristle with anger, as she blasted both Raspberry and Councilman Randolph Gear, the two Black council members, accusing them of "grandstanding" and demanded they "deal with the real issues here...we are losing many Black males to alcohol abuse."

The Salvation Army in Romulus works to rehabilitate about 100 adult men suffering from various substance abuse problems. The men volunteer to undergo a 90-day rehabilitation program locally, Senn said, and the program is totally separate from the Department of Correction program.

The mayor told Raspberry that the possible sale was discussed by the council the last few weeks.

She also said the exact city procedure including a public hearing on the land use issue were spelled out in the City Council packet that Raspberry and other council officials received six days prior to the June 9 meeting.

Such a public hearing was listed in a memorandum from Community Development Director Dennis Oakes and was part of the packet given to all city officials and the Romulus Roman.

Gear later interjected "I want to add to the mayor's statement...we are losing many white males to alcohol and drug abuse too."

Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks quieted the debate. "It doesn't bother me that the public has questions about Salvation Army operations."

Then nodding toward Stilwell and Senn, Banks said, "I don't think we have had any problems since the day the Salvation Army began serving here."

"Someone has to be here to help...particularly when the state and federal government won't," Banks stated.

Gear also asked what the ethnic makeup of the men being served at the Romulus Adult Rehabilitation Center was now. Senn explained that the facility is serving about 100 men, 25 percent of whom are black.

Stilwell quickly added, "We have adult rehabilitation units throughout the nation, some are 90 percent black and others could be 90 percent white."

Salvation Army rehab units mirror the communities they serve, Stilwell explained, and don't set racial quotas, simply fill the critical needs of the day.

Reacting to Raspberry's continued demands for a public hearing, McAnally said, "Let's settle it with a public hearing and get on with the main issue."

A second public hearing will be scheduled by the Planning Commission after the Salvation Army has architectural sketches and plans completed.

Police nab suspect

A 21-year-old Romulus armed robbery suspect was arrested early Wednesday morning after he reportedly asked a cab driver to take him on a round trip to Detroit and then robbed him of all his receipts.

Police said the defendant, Charles Edward West, called for a cab at 4 a.m. from Eureka and Middlebelt, gave the driver a $40 deposit and then asked him to drive him to Outer Drive and Fort Street in Detroit.

West asked the driver to wait for him for a few minutes, police said, and then asked the driver to drop him off at a dead-end street in Romulus.

When they approached the dead end street, police said, he ordered the cab driver to turn off the cab.

The cab driver refused, police said, and the assailant then pulled his victim by the hair and placed a gun to his temple and demanded "empty your pockets or die."

The driver surrendered his cash and fled from the cab on foot. The victim contacted Romulus police, who responded to the scene.

After being given the suspect's description, Sgt. Mike Ondejko and Office Matthew Robertson followed a set of footprints to a nearby house and apprehended West.

West was arraigned before 34th District Court Judge William Szlinis and $50,000 or 10 percent bond was set. According to police reports, West punched the wall in the holding cell and had to be taken to Annapolis Hospital for treatment of bruises to his hand following the court procedure.

Faced with the same uncertainties of many his age today, Snipes isn't quite sure where will settle next.

"I favor the Georgia area," he said, "It reminds me most of Romulus." But the job market will have a heavy impact on his decision.

Toy Snipes, a comedian who traces his family ties back to Romulus, is shown in a promotional photo he uses for his comedy club appearances.

Man arrested for 3 assaults

A 20-year-old Romulus man was arrested on charges he entered a Hale Creek home without permission early last Sunday and assaulted three of the residents.

Police investigators allege that Mark Anthony Brown entered the home about 1:40 a.m. screaming that someone had stolen a golden chain from him.

Sgt. Joseph Wedesky said Brown first woke a mother out of a sound sleep and then one of her sons. When Brown allegedly began shoving the son and slapping him in the face, a second son awoke, according to police reports.

Police said Brown then proceeded to slap the second son in the face as the mother ran outside to alert her husband.

The husband entered the home, tackled Brown, while one of the sons dialed 911.

Brown was arraigned and ordered held on $300 cash bond on the four charges.

Economic growth strategies proposed

Strategies to improve the economic climate of Michigan were discussed at a meeting conducted in Van Buren Township earlier this month.

The meeting, chaired by Rep. James Kosteva, featured presentations by Les Koska from the National Bank of Detroit, Gretchen Waters of the Washtenaw Development Council, David Cole from the University of Michigan Office of Automotive Transportation and Paul Courant of the U of M Institute on Public Policy Studies.

Koska urged the state to address four economic factors when considering an economic development strategy: education, the stagnant population trend, the decline of mass production and the dispersion of economic activity. Koska said the state needs to look at new ways to attract people to our cities and encourage recycling of our cities and existing urban areas.

In his speech, Courant stressed the urgency to provide good infrastructure, a stable regulatory climate and a strong educational system. He also expressed the need to develop new markets other than the dependency on the auto industry.

Waters asked the state to develop a consistent Economic Development Policy. By not having a clear focus and definite incentives, many businesses are turned away from locating in the state, she said.

"Overall, the speakers asked the legislature to get beyond single issues, such as property tax reform, and urge the governor to clarify his intentions for economic development," Kosteva said. "They would like to see the state streamline its regulatory system and develop an environment attractive to business and industry."

Kosteva, who chairs the House Committee on Economic Development and Energy, plans to schedule additional committee meetings later this year to continue the discussions.

'Dr. Death' may soon learn fate

By DENNIS MANSFIELD
ANP Staff Writer

The fate of retired pathologist Dr. Jack Kevorkian, better known in national headlines as "Dr. Death," could soon be decided by a Rochester Hills judge.

Geoffrey Fieger, the Southfield-based attorney representing Kevorkian, said arguments for the dismissal of first-degree murder charges were heard by Judge James Sheehy of the Rochester Hills District Court this past week. "We waiting for the rulings," Fieger said.

The murder charges are related to the deaths of Sherry Miller, 43, and Marjorie Wantz, 58, who died Oct. 23, 1991. Kevorkian was indicted for first-degree murder by a grand jury for the women's deaths.

Fieger said it would be difficult to predict Sheehy's rulings despite the fact another Michigan judge dismissed charges filed against Kevorkian in the death of Janet Adkins of Portland, Ore. The charges were dismissed when the judge ruled there was no state law against assisting in a suicide.

That doesn't mean the charges will be dropped in Sheehy's forthcoming ruling. "There's already been a dismissal of the first case and that didn't set a president," Fieger said.

Even if Kevorkian and his attorneys win and charges are dropped for a second time, Kevorkian is facing another legal battle in the recent death of a Clarkston woman he allegedly helped commit suicide in May.

"The medical examiner has ruled the death of Susan Williams was a homicide," Fieger said, "which is preposterous."

Police seek clues in barn blaze

By DENNIS MANSFIELD
ANP Staff Writer

Canton Township police and fire department officials are still investigating a June 9 fire at a barn on the 47000 block of Geddes Road.

Police patrolling the area at about 7 p.m. reported a barn engulfed in flames. Canton fire fighting units were called to the scene.

Witnesses reported seeing three juveniles, one on roller skates and two riding bikes, leaving the barn shortly before the fire started, according to police.

Police later found the three youngsters who allegedly were in the barn. One of the individuals said the fire had started as a result of a firecracker going off in some hay.

Another of the juveniles stated they had tried to put the fire out. When they were unable to extinguish the flames, they became scared and fled the scene, the subject told police.

Damage to the barn was estimated at $7,500, according to police.

No charges have been filed against the juveniles at this time pending fire and police investigations.

Parts supplier earns national quality award

An award for outstanding achievement in quality and delivery was presented to Daikin Clutch Corp. of Van Buren Township by Honda of America Mfg. in May.

Daikin Clutch was among only 28 of 246 North American HAM suppliers to win a quality award and among only 26 to win a delivery award at the 10th annual supplier conference hosted by the automaker.

The Van Buren company makes clutch and flywheel assemblies for Honda Accord and Civic models.

"We are pleased to provide recognition to Daikin associates for their strong commitment to supplying quality parts for Honda products," said Dave Nelson, vice president of purchasing for HAM. "To meet the rigorous standards of a HAM Supplier Award winner is a serious challenge and these associates have risen to that challenge. They are on the leading edge of America's competitiveness in the motor vehicle industry."

HAM officials presented the associates of Daikin Clutch with a plaque for display at the plant. The company also presented a video to Daikin which shows HAM manufacturing with the Daikin-made parts being assembled into the vehicles.

The HAM Quality and Delivery awards recognize suppliers for the production of quality parts and 100 percent on-time delivery of all parts. Basic qualifications for the award are:

- Quality Award - parts rejects of less than 80 parts per million.
- Delivery Award - 100 percent on-time delivery of all parts.
- Production Support Award - raw materials rejects of zero parts per million and 100 percent on-time delivery.

Daikin began supplying parts to HAM in November, 1990.

Cruise ships sparkle with night life

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Although cruises are best know for excellent cuisine and carefree relaxation, they sparkle and sizzle with night life when the sun goes down.

From the traditional "Welcome Aboard" reception on the first evening to the "Farewell Appreciation Party," cruise passengers are on a whirl of fun every evening aboard ship.

Even those who are unaccustomed to non-stop activity soon get into the party spirit and join in the after-dinner parties, dances and live entertainment.

Soon after boarding the Celebration and most other cruise ships, a special singles only party is staged to introduce the single passengers to one another. Throughout the cruise, special activities are lined up for the singles to enjoy.

Entertainment is designed to appeal to the wide variety of passengers on the cruise.

For example, on the recent Celebration seven-day cruise to Puerto Rico, St. Thomas and St. Martin, five different entertainers performed nightly in addition to special guest artists and the Celebration Orchestra. Jeff played '60s and '70s tunes at the Trolley Bar, the duet Double Vision entertained at the Endless Summer Lounge, Three Way Street played favorites for dancing in the Islands in the Sky Lounge, Gabriel attracted the sing-along crowd at the Red Hot Piano Bar, a calypso duo entertained at poolside and Kirk performed disk jockey duties at the Galax Z Disco.

Comedian Lewis Nixon, ventriloquist Tim Harkleroad, juggler Zuniga and singers Tia and Debra Lee Kristian performed in the special shows in the main auditorium and lounges.

Cruise Director Rand Woodbury combined his skills as a magician and comedian to entertain as well as the serve as master of ceremonies for the guest artists.

Highlight of the cruise was a Best of Broadway revue featuring singers and dancers performing tunes from Cats, Hello Dolly, South Pacific and a variety of other shows.

Each of the many cruise ships that sail the Caribbean set similar action-packed entertainment offerings. In addition, side trips at various ports allow passengers to seek out entertainment with a local accent - flamenco dancers, calypso bands, jazz groups and blues shows.

'Outback' brings taste of down under to area

By DENNIS MANSFIELD
ANP Staff Writer

On June 23, the first Outback Steakhouse in the Detroit Metro area will open in Canton Township.

"It's the first in Michigan," said Outback manager Gary Harchelroad. "The theme is Australian, but the cuisine is good old American."

"We get a lot of replicas dealing with the Australian theme. We'll have maps of Australia and Koala bears," he said.

As far as food, Harchelroad said, most Outback patrons come back again and again for the Bloomin' Onions, which are similar to batter-fried onions at other restaurants - but different.

"That's definitely a trademark Outback item," he said. "It's one where you come back and say you have to have it again. Most people order the Bloomin' Onions and a sirloin steak."

"At some places, a steak is just a steak. Here you get something additional," Harchelroad added. "It's a bit spicier. It's just something different."

Harchelroad said steaks are prepared at Outback using a combination of 16 mild spices to bring out the flavor of the meat.

"I guess that's what separates us from other steakhouses. It gives the steak some extra flavoring," he said. "People kind of get addicted to it. Once you come in then you have to come back."

Hours for the new Canton restaurant, located at 42871 Ford Road in the Canton Corners mall, are 4-10:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 4-11:30 p.m. on Friday, 3:30-11:30 p.m. on Saturday and 3:30-10 p.m. on Sunday.

"You can pretty much come dressed any way you want. It's very casual," Harchelroad said. "It's the Australian theme, not a black-tie affair."

The restaurant will seat approximately 230 people, including about 60 persons at the bar, where people may also eat their meals.

"Once we're open, we'll be pretty busy," Harchelroad said. "Canton will have a real treat."

Clogged drain?

Traffic on Elizabeth Street near Michigan Avenue was detoured last week when a water main break sent thousands of gallons of water into the street and shut off service to nearby homes and some businesses while repairs were under way. Service was restored within an afternoon but water was well past tire wells of vehicles making hazardous driving in the area during the repairs. ANP photo by Larry DiVizio

Exhibition planned

Sports card, racing car and unique memorabilia including a full line of die cast cars, racing collectibles, hockey, baseball, football, basketball and Soviet pins and uniforms will be on display and for sale at the Dearborn Elks Club, 25000 Michigan Ave, two blocks west of Telegraph Road from 10:30 until 5 p.m. Sunday.

There will be door prizes and food and beverages available along with 35 tables of displays which will include Sports Illustrated magazines from the '50s and game used sticks and jerseys along with autographed material.

Secretary of state urges residents to vote

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

He was an underdog, the son of an itinerant coal miner, but his determination, desire for perfection and willingness to let nothing get in his way allowed this Michigan official to become a mentor and an inspiration to many.

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin (D) recently visited residents at the Wayne Community Center to encourage them to vote in the Aug. 4 primary and Nov. 3 election. The event was sponsored by the Metro Wayne Democratic Club.

"I'm delighted to be here," Austin said. "I'd like you to realize how proud I am to be your secretary of state. Not very many people get to serve all of the people of Michigan."

"Everyone in this room does business with the secretary of state, and you're so loyal."

Austin expressed his gratitude for the residents supporting him during the years.

"The group in this room, and in particular Cliff Johnson, have been supportive of me from the first time I entered politics," Austin said. "I want you to know that I am grateful."

"I want to start off by saying not all Republican office holders are bad. But, I don't remember ever voting for one."

Austin said the first election in which he voted was in 1936 for Franklin D. Roosevelt's bid for re-election.

"I think, however, it's time we realize that the Republican presidents we've had, especially these last few presidents, have been leading us down the pike that we need to get off," Austin said. "We need a change. Four more years on the path we've been following will exact a telling price, one that none of us can afford."

Austin said President George Bush and the Republican leadership are driving wedges between the rich and the poor, black and white, city and suburb and the rural areas.

"With their tax policies they are discouraging hard work and honest effort," Austin said. "They are destroying some of our fundamental freedoms and rights. They certainly are not offering protection to them."

"They are not providing adequate health care for our families. They are ignoring the problems in our cities, schools and our young people."

Future generations will face a tremendous debt accumulated by the last two Republican presidents, according to Austin.

"I think another fact we have to realize is that these administrations are methodically destroying organized labor," Austin said. "Workers are not being adequately protected."

"This is an important election we face. It's going to shape our nation's future. You cannot sit this election out."

Everyone can do a little more to make a brighter future, according to Austin.

"We are not only concerned at the national level, but we're greatly concerned at the state and local levels," Austin said. "We are concerned that we maintain control of the Michigan House of Representatives."

Austin said Republicans are determined to gain control of the Michigan House of Representatives.

"In order to win elections, eligible voters must cast their ballots," Austin said. "Election turnouts have been low. This is the greatest democracy the world has ever known, but our voter turnouts are lower than they are in most other democracies around the world."

U.S. residents cannot vote in this country unless they are registered. July 6 is the last day to register for the Aug. 4 primary, according to Austin.

"Issues are on our side," Austin said. "The record of the Reagan-Bush administration are so bad, people are wondering if they want anyone to remain in office more than one term."

Austin said democrats must offset and oppose the extravagance with enthusiasm.

"It can be done with enthusiasm and old fashion hard work," Austin said.

Since 1971, Austin has served as the Michigan Secretary of State bringing an extensive background in business, government, politics and volunteer community service.

His professional experience includes a 30-year career as a practicing certified public accountant.

Born in Alabama, Austin and his family moved to Detroit after his father died. He worked his way through school to help his mother support the family.

His scholastic achievements and athletic excellence as a track star won him a scholarship to Wayne State University. Family circumstances, however, forced Austin to abandon his scholarship.

During the day Austin sold and repaired shoes and kept books in a shoe store. At night, he studied accounting at the Detroit Institute of Technology (DIT).

Austin earned a bachelor of arts in business administration from DIT. He later became the first black certified public accountant in Michigan.

In 1961, Austin began his public service career as an elected delegate to the Michigan Constitutional Convention. In 1964, he ran for U.S. Congress, but he lost by 38 votes. In 1966, he was elected Wayne County auditor. In 1969, he entered the mayoral race in Detroit, losing by 1 percent.

In 1970, Austin was elected to the statewide post of secretary of state. He has been re-elected five times.

FATHER'S DAY

Back in time

Church plans return to 29 A.D.

By KAREN GRANDISON
ANP Special Writer

Imagine a marketplace of ancient Biblical times where townspeople would buy and barter for handmade crafts and foods. The smell of candles, leather and herbs fill the air and the constant activity is testament to the success of the entrepreneurial spirit.

A taste of that historic atmosphere is available this year at Marketplace 29 A.D. planned at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Westland as part of the vacation Bible school program for adults and children.

"Instead of a plain-old Bible study, we wanted to try something different," Holly Bryngelson, a parishoner, said. The students are divided into five groups, each with a tribal elder who gathers the group and teaches Hebrew and Jewish traditions.

Each day, there is a 30-minute prayer, and then students begin lessons in bread making and sew banners and money pouches.

Elders send their children to the marketplace to learn how to make such crafts as candles, rugs, and pottery. There is an herb shop, candle-makers, pottery-makers, basketweavers and rugmakers. There are also dramas, dancing, music and storytelling at the well every night. On the last night of the marketplace, there will be a worship service conducted by Rev. David Bode, followed by an "ox" roast and dancing.

"I'm not sure if it will be ox, but it will be some kind of beef that is roasted Friday night," Bryngelson explained.

Tents will be set up outside the church. Those who are participating will dress in robes similar to those worn in 29 A.D.

The event is scheduled from from 6 p.m. until dark June 14 through 19 and is free to the public. Prince of Peace Lutheran Church is located at 37775 Palmer in Westland.

Lapeer West shatters Glenn dream in semis, 2-1

You got to wonder if the hit-and-run is on or if he's signaling for his batter to hit away, but only veteran Westland John Glenn coach Norm Hoenes (above) knows. Hoenes and his Rockets saw their dream of a Class A state baseball championship year shatter on Friday when they lost a heartbreaker to Lapeer West in the semifinal round of the Class A state finals. Rockets fall short of state crown

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It just wasn't in the books for Westland John Glenn.

Lapeer West wrote the final chapter to the Glenn Cinderella season in Battle Creek on Friday.

With ace hurler Brandon Reed on the mound, Lapeer West pulled out a stunning 2-1 victory over Coach Norm Hoenes' Rockets in the semifinal round of the Class A state baseball championships.

It was the second time in a decade that a Hoenes team had reached the coveted "Final 4" and had been denied the coveted prize.

"It was a heartbreaker," said the veteran Glenn coach, who brought the curtain down on his 26th campaign with a 17-8 record. "They had this Reed kid on the mound and believe me he's good. He kept our kids off balance."

"But I still felt we could have beaten them."

Glenn must have softened

Lapeer up for Birmingham Brother Rice. Rice managed to survive a comedy-of-errors finale to win the state championship 15-11.

Reed was tough on the Rockets. The 17-year-old junior was working on a shutout until the last of the seventh when Derek Besco put one of his change-ups over the left field fence for the lonely Glenn run.

The Westlanders continued to keep the outcome of the game in doubt as sophomore Mike Bint followed Besco's HR with an equally smacking hit that bounced off left field fence. Bint was forced to settle for a single.

"He hit the ball as hard as Besco did," noted Hoenes, "however, it didn't get high enough."

Still Glenn had the tying run on first and no-outs.

"Big D" time for Hoenes. Bunt? Sacrifice? Hit away?

Martin Potter managed to sacrifice Bint to second, however, Reed got out of the inning without further damage and won the game by getting the next two batters.

Lapeer scored in the fourth off of losing pitcher Aaron Scheffer, who also turned in exceptional performance. They got what proved to be the winning run in the sixth.

In the fourth Scheffer gave up a one-out double to Scott Bradshaw, then Reed singled him home for the first run of the game. In the sixth, Scheffer was the victim of an error, a throwing miscue and Bradshaw's second hit that led to the winning run.

Glenn had an opportunity to score in the third but left Bobby Hayes stranded. Hayes blasted a triple to right center, the ball going all the way to the fence. Reed again came through and snuffed out the rally.

In the fourth, Scheffer singled and moved to second when John Ward walked. Derek Besco hit into a fielder's choice but Taylo Farley was erased on a groundout. With runners on second and third and two away, Reed came right back with a strikeout.

Scheffer notched five strikeouts and walked two - one intentionally. He gave up four hits. Reed, in winning, also coughed up four hits, but fanned 10 Glenn batters and walked two.

Glenn, which started the 1992 campaign by losing three of its first five games, managed to come back and win 14 of its last 16 games.

"These kids proved that they are one of the greatest teams to ever play at Glenn," said Hoenes.

Glenn loses only six players to graduation: Potter (catcher), Kirkey (pitcher-outfielder), Farley (first baseman), John Ward (pitcher-outfielder), Greg Tamas (infielder) and Jamie Buford (infielder).

"We have the nucleus of an outstanding team for next year," Hoenes added. "Yes, I wish we could begin that season right now."

All-Area baseball is next up

The high school baseball season may be over for local teams, but not for the Associated Newspapers Sports Staff. The staff is putting together the lineup for the 1992 All-Area team.

And, with players from such outstanding teams as Westland John Glenn, Belleville, Plymouth-Salem, Plymouth-Canton, Wayne Memorial and Romulus to select from, the task will not be an easy one.

The players and the 1992 Coach of the Year should be in place by next week. You can look forward to a lineup that the ANP staff believes is second to none in Michigan.

Ireland edges Van Buren in tourney

It may have been the luck of the Irish or the inability of the Van Buren Township Typhoons to cash in on their opportunities.

But, whatever it was, the Typhoons lost a hard-fought, 2-1 decision to the national Ireland soccer team at the annual Clearwater (Florida) Invitational.

"The game was exciting and fast-paced but the second half dominance of our team was just not enough to win this one," noted Van Buren coach

Dale Travis. "We gave it a good try and lost to an outstanding club."

The Typhoons came away from the tournament with the knowledge that it is the first Michigan team to make it to the championship round of the prestigious Florida tournament. To reach the finals, the Typhoons shut out three opponents in the preliminary rounds.

The Typhoons also traveled to Westlake, Ohio to compete in the Westlake Invitational.

The local kickers coasted to the championship game, riding victories over the Westlake Demons, Bay Village Fury, Lima Eagles, and the Fairview Falcons before earning the right to meet the Grove City Renegades out of Ohio.

In the championship bout, the Typhoons buried the Renegades, 6-1, to become the first Michigan team to capture the first-place trophy at Westlake.

The busy and weary Van Buren team managed to shut out all three of their opponents in the Countryside International Tournament prior to the lost to the Ireland nationals. They blanked the Miami Strike Force, the tournament defending champ and current Florida state champions.

Van Buren also posted victories over the Ohio Premier from Cleveland, 2-0.

"We're very pleased with the progress of our team," said Travis, "and we're looking forward to future tournaments."

Glenn catcher Matt Howton (above) shouts bits of encouragement to the Rockets from the dugout. Howton and the Rockets put together a thrilling stretch run after a slow start to capture district and regional baseball championships before losing in the state semifinals. The Rockets will only lose six seniors to graduations and that could mean the Westlanders will be a threat again a year from now. ANP photo by Larry DiVizio

Soccer tryouts scheduled

The Wayne-Westland Panthers soccer team will conduct tryouts for a Little Caesar's 11-13 year old boys team.

Tryouts will be conducted from 6 until 8 p.m. June 22 and June 23 at Patchin Elementary School in Westland.

Players should be born between Aug. 1, 1979 and July 31, 1980.

For further information, contact Larry Brenner at 486-1925.

Also, the Van Buren Typhoons also will be signing up players from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m. on June 29.

Hole-in-one

Westland golfer Kirk A. Ahljian has scored a hole-in-one at Superstition Springs golf course in Mesa, Arizona. Ahljian aced the No.3, 153-yard hole on April 30.

Ahljian's feat qualified him for the 32 annual Drambuie Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes. Ahljian and Michael Stuwe, the golf pro who validated the sweepstakes entry, are both eligible to win a grand prize of a one-week trip for two to Scotland.

The sweepstakes runs from Jan. 1, 1992 to Dec. 31, 1992.

All entrants will receive a customized Hole-in-One bag tag from the Drambuie Liquor Company Ltd., Edinburgh, Scotland.

Canton grid star signs with Cornell

A Canton Township high school football star has signed a national letter of intent to attend Cornell University in Ithaca, New York this fall.

Matt Roney, who earned All-State consideration, will continue his excellent football career for the Big Red football family, according to Jim Hoffer, Cornell head football coach.

Roney prepped at Detroit Catholic Central.

"Matt has had an outstanding high school career and we welcome him to the Big Red football family," Hoffer said.

The 5-10, 185-pound Roney earned All-State honors as a defensive back while playing for the Catholic Central Shamrocks.

The incoming Cornell freshman will enroll in the College of Engineering.

Cornell, winner of more Ivy League games over the past six years than any other team, will open its varsity season against arch-rival, Princeton, on Sept. 19.

Cagers have another shot

Athletes who wish to improve upon their basketball skills have another shot at the basket next week.

Wayne Memorial head cage coach Chuck Henry said today that he is conducting his second of two spring camps, beginning on Monday.

"We just finished a successful camp last week with the kids," Henry said. "And I feel these kids not only learned a lot, but they enjoyed participating in the drills."

"We're coming back with the second session next week, but that will be for a different age group."

The second session will be staged from June 22 and conclude June 26 at Wayne Memorial High School. Classes are for boys and girls who are in the 8th through 12th grades, who reside in the school district attendance area.

There is a $25 registration fee.

Players who have any questions about the camp should contact coach Henry at 729-8022.

After their hard-fought battle for the Clearwater, Florida Soccer Invitational title, the Van Buren Typhoons and the Ireland national team called time out for the photographer. Kneeling (left to right) are Eric O'Neil, Zach Wilkinson, Andy Neal, Mike Minicilli, Chris King, Tate Travis, and Jason Viers; standing are Jason Roy, Scott Babinski, Jason Bennett, Mike Elsner, Jim Bullock, Seth Keirrich, Andres Lopez, coach Dale Travis and coach Rick Viers. 3 invited to hockey camp

One defenseman, forward and a goalie have been invited to the Western Michigan hockey team training camp as the top potential "walk on" candidates for the 1992-93 season, according to Coach Bill Wilkinson.

The recruits are forward David Weaver of Canton Township, defenseman Jim Holman and goalie David Mitchell.

Weaver, a 6-1, 190-pound rugged athlete, posted a 1.36 points per game average during the campaign last year and compiled 103 (45-58) points in 76 games.

Mitchell and Weaver were members of the Detroit Little Caesar's midget team which won the 1991 and 1992 U.S. National Midget AAA titles.

Holman (5-11, 180 pounds) was the captain of the 1991-92 Waterloo Blackhawks of the United States Hockey League (USHL).

Last year, Mitchell (5-10, 160 pounds) had a 2.54 goals against average and had a 12-1-2 record. In 1990-91, he owned the best netminding average of 2.08 in the midget major division of the state of Michigan.

"We like the character of all three of these men. That's why we invited them to try out for the team. We are particularly pleased to see such improved development in talent level of players in our backyard like Jim Holman.

"We look forward to being able to bring into our program more players from our own area in the future," Wilkinson added.

Wilkinson has lost six players from the 1991-92 Bronco squad that finished with a 16-14-6 overall record and a 14-12-6 mark in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association action for fourth place.

Taurus gets '92 redesign

The 1992 model Ford Taurus has received a major redesign, the greatest design change since introduction of the car as a 1986 model.

The Taurus sedan, among the top-selling family sedans in the world, has a virtually all-new body, an innovative new interior and numerous mechanical improvements for the 1992 model year.

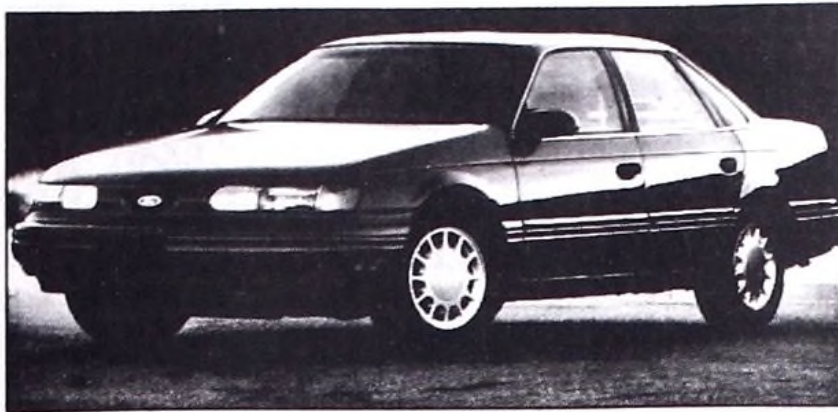

"Taurus' overall quality has been raised above already high levels by advances in design, manufacturing and quality control techniques," said Ross H. Roberts, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager. "Taurus has been a leader in design and technology since the introduction and the new '92 model will strengthen that position even further."

There are four Taurus 4-door sedan series: L, GL, LX and SHO. A 4-door station wagon is available in all but the SHO line.

The Taurus SHO has been extensively redesigned to give it a more aggressive and distinctive look that emphasizes its performance orientation. It has special color-keyed body-side and rocker-panel moldings, unique grille with integrated fog lamps, a special rear bumper fascia and 16-inch aluminum wheels and performance tires. The SHO retains its standard 3.0 liter, 220-horsepower high-performance engine with a five-speed trans-axle.

The top-of-the-line 1992 LX is equipped as a sporty driver's car. It has a monochromatic paint treatment and such standard equipment as variable-assist power steering, bucket seats, a center console, a floor shift and anti-lock braking system.

1992 Taurus sedan body is new, except the doors. The exterior trim, including ornamentation, bumpers, rocker-panel molding on L and GL models and body cladding on the LX, also is new.

The overall profile of the Taurus has been retained, but considerably refined. Corners of the vehicle have been emphasized by reducing the cross section of the body-side molding. The rear section has been extended by 2.2 inches. For a more sporty look, the wheel openings have been fully radiused.

The overall length of the Taurus has been increased by 3.8 inches, with an increase in trunk volume of 0.9 cubic feet.

In addition, there are nine new colors and numerous detail changes such as tinted outside rear-view mirrors, new aluminum wheels and wheel covers.

The interior has been completely redesigned, improving both safety and ergonomics. The instrument panel has a new flow-through theme, with the doors and instrument panel forming a continuous flowing line. A driver-side air-bag is standard on all models, and a passenger-side air-bag is optional.

All radios are new and include upgraded features such as increased power and remote radio controls mounted near the steering wheel. The new remote controls allow the driver to change stations or adjust volume without taking his or her eyes off the road. Seats and interior trim are redesigned using new colors and improved fabrics.

"Our new 1992 Taurus is a highly refined touring sedan that incorporates the best of all worlds, top quality, aerodynamic styling and leading-edge technology," said Roberts. "Taurus has been one of the world's best-selling sedans since its introduction as a 1986 model and will continue to be a trend-setter for the 1990's."
